New Studio Space!

My sister Lori and I are one step closer to living our dream. We just moved into our new studio space in Old Town Fairfax, VA.

Lori and I plan on using the space as a working studio as well as a gallery. We are seeing clients currently by appointment only.

To celebrate our new space we will be having an open house and a opening of a new series of works entitled, "Tranquility & Choas of the Human Form".

Saturday, May 22, 6pm-9pm. Please rsvp to sherry@studio310.net or lori@studio.net.

Visit our website at www.studio310.net for more information.

Greetings!

What an exciting and very busy start to the new year.

As I mentioned in my newsletter last month, I will be having my first solo show in Red Lion, PA, and beginning this month I now have a new studio and gallery space that I'm sharing with my best friend and sister Lori Dever!

My First Solo Show!

Handy Concepts Art Gallery

April 1 - April 30, 2010 at Handy Concepts Art Gallery in Red Lion, PA.

There will be an Opening Reception on Saturday, April 17, 2010, 6 - 9 pm. Red Lion is just about an hour from Baltimore. I hope to see a lot of familiar faces there!

IMPORTANT NOTE:

Some of you have already expressed interest in a few of my paintings. Keep in mind that the show begins on April 1 and runs through April 30. This means that patrons visiting the gallery prior to the opening on April 17, will be able to purchase the paintings. Therefore, if you had planned on purchasing a particular piece at the opening, you may want to put a deposit on it beforehand so that the gallery owner can mark it as sold. Please email me if you are interested: srusso@sherryrussoart.com.

Normally at an opening reception, gallery owners require purchased paintings to remain hung until the end of the month but the owner of Handy Concepts is allowing my clients to take their paintings home the night of the opening!
